MOST ECO-FRIENDLY LUXURY HOTEL IN SEA

Your very own sustainable escape

Song Saa Private
Island, Cambodia

By ANGELALOW

More than a luxury retreat with picturesque beachside villas, spa amenities, gourmet offerings and bespoke resort programmes, Cambodia's Song Saa Private Island is an eco-paradise that takes care of its environment as well. Each cabin is built from locally sourced reclaimed timber and features unique furniture pieces upcycled from driftwood and other abandoned materials.

It supports local organic farmers as well, using ingredients grown from the villages on the island. One of the greatest appeals of this private resort – total buy-out options are available – is the aquatic flora and fauna beneath the crystal-clear water that surrounds the two untarnished isles on which Song Saa sits.

But none of this can be appreciated without the conscious effort to protect Mother Nature. As such, a marine reserve has been created, and initiatives for waste management and water conservation have been rolled out to keep this a utopian haven for both its inhabitants and guests.

So successful is Song Saa Private Island and Song Saa Foundation (all under the Song Saa Collective umbrella), the parent company is now working on Song Saa Reserve in Siem Reap. It's yet another step in the eco-friendly direction, and it's something guests can definitely approve of. www.songsaa.com
